MOOD: 😏 envious

MUSIC: Randy Newman, "You've Got a Friend in Me"

Woody does pretty damn good parkour.

(Even I weigh too much to hang from my fingers off the electrical conduit, though.)

(P.S.--I seem to have a v-gift of a virtual coyote named Stan. This is...strange.)

This looks like a good idea.

This.

...

Little guy's not bad.

Gotta teach RHex to smear.

So the Ng kids liked it? Or just you?

Well, their mom may kill me eventually, because I don't think Brandon will ever throw anything away again. (Incinerator = !HELLFIRE!)

I didn't cry. Neither did the kids. Ask any of us. We'll all tell you the same thing.

hmmm...my niece and nephew saw it - and loved it - and they are 6 and almost 5.

I think it rather depends on the almost 4 year old. If he isn't too scared by the prospector in 2, and has gone to the theatre before (and so wouldn't be extra freaked out by the dark and big screen) I say go for it. But maybe talk to him first to prepare him for it.

Will also get him cool points for knowing the word "despicable."

I must confess that of all my^[1] imaginary Internet friends, you are far and away the most deserving of a virtual coyote.

Especially one named Stan.^[2]

[1] I was not the anonymous donor.

[2] After all, "Stan" is obviously short for " standuponit", right?

[2] That's what I was thinking. Except it looks as if LiveJournal named him, and I don't think they know me that well.

He definitely doesn't eat as much as an imaginary cat...
